

iTunes is one of the most popular music stores in today’s world. In fact, it is the most popular music store. It has had over one billion music downloads and over one billion app downloads as well. Not only does it offer music and apps and games, but TV shows, movies, and a free radio.

Most songs in the iTunes are .99 cents. However, with growing popularity, songs may be 1.29. And if a song is not that very popular or well known, then it may only be .69 cents. Now, if you don’t want to be 1.29 for every single song, it is also possible to just purchase a whole album or song pack. For example, there are plenty of albums out there that have more than one hundred classical pieces of music for only about sixteen dollars. The prices change regularly and more albums and songs get added all the time.

Movies can either be purchased or rented for thirty days. However, once you start to watch a rented movie you only have twenty four hours to finish watching it. In that twenty four hour period, you can watch the movie as much as you want. Movies range in price. Some may be 14.99 while some may only be 3.99. Rented movies are usually 1.99.

TV shows are relatively cheap as well. They are 1.99 per episode most of the time, and there are deals when you can buy the whole season for a discounted price. On top of that, you can also purchase a season pass which allows you to reserve your copies of episodes and allows you to download them as soon as they are available. This is a major luxury for some people.

The radio on iTunes is free, and you do not need an iTunes account to listen to it either. There are many genres on the free radio, ranging from classical, to rock, to alternative, to heavy death metal. It can make the day the office even more perfect when you can't find that favorite song in your favorite playlist. The iTunes radio can be a real lifesaver.

All in all, iTunes is a pay as you go kind of store, and you do pay “a la carte.” But you definitely get what you pay for, and will not ever get scammed. You will only be getting high quality music, TV shows, and movies. Oh, and of course apps from the app store!
